8. Information on nominating a beneficiary

Your account balance is paid to your beneficiaries or your estate in the event of your death. However, the law restricts who can be a beneficiary.

Who can you nominate?

Under superannuation law, you can nominate:

Individuals

- your spouse or de-facto spouse, including same sex partners
- children including step and adopted children
- individuals who are financially dependent on you at the time of your death
- someone in an interdependency relationship to you. This is a close personal relationship between two people who live together, where one or both of them provide for the financial and domestic support and personal care of the other. This type of relationship may still exist if there is a close personal relationship but the other requirements are not satisfied because of some physical, intellectual or psychiatric disability.

Legal representative (your estate)

- your legal representative (either the executor under your will or a person(s) granted letters of administration for your estate if you die without having left a valid will)

Types of nominations

- a non-lapsing binding nomination which is binding on the Trustee – ensures your account balance is paid as you have directed as long as the nomination is and remains valid
- a non binding nomination subject to Trustee discretion – the Trustee will decide who receives your account balance and will consider your preferred beneficiaries.
- no nomination – the Trustee will decide who receives your account balance.
